Mentor Technical Group Launches Mentor Management Group

BY PEDRO VALLE JAVIER

Mentor Technical Group, a company that provides technical support and solutions for the Food & Drug Administration's regulated industry on utilities management, has announced the launch of a new division, Mentor Management Group. This new division is designed to provide project management services for Mentor's client base.

Heading Mentor Management Group is Edgardo J. Fábregas, a registered professional engineer and the new director of construction and project management operations for Mentor. According to the engineer, project management isn't new to the group. "Although the division is officially starting now, we have been providing these services for some time," he said. The director explained that what the division is doing is consolidating all of their services and giving them a new direction. "We saw the opportunity to unite all of our services into a new division," Fábregas said.

According to Fábregas, the mission of this new division is to provide Mentor's clients with efficient, reliable, and repeatable project solutions. "We at Mentor have developed a unique interviewing process that will ensure not only the best but also the most qualified and adaptable individuals are selected for each project," he said.

For Fábregas, the services the company provides as a project manager are unique. "We have a competitive advantage by combining our project management group with our other divisions, such as calibrations, facilities management and outsourcing, reliability engineering, regulatory compliance and validation, and pump and seal repairs. The synergies obtained from the multidisciplinary environment will provide our clients with a competitive edge," he explained. "As project managers, we run any project our clients have. We either provide the necessary personnel for the project or we handle all aspects of it."

As an example of a project Mentor is able to handle, Fábregas mentioned the installation of new manufacturing equipment in a pharmaceutical company. "We allow clients to continue with their normal operations and devote their personnel entirely to their business goals while we take care of their projects," he said. According to him, the company is able to tackle a diverse array of projects. "If our clients need new facilities, such as a new office, we can also help them with that," he said. n
